Abigail Cahn-Gambino practices complex litigation defense in pharmaceutical, medical device, products liability, and toxic tort matters. Her responsibilities include drafting motions and deposition outlines, conducting legal research, and analyzing discovery documents.

Prior to joining the firm, Abigail served as a judicial intern at the Maryland Court of Appeals, a research intern at Refugees International, and an analyst at Toast, a restaurant payments software company.

Abigail graduated from Georgetown Law, where she served as Executive & Submissions Editor of the Georgetown Journal of Legal Ethics earning the Spring 2023 Best Student Note Award. She was also a member of the Jewish Law Students Association and the Georgetown Gilbert & Sullivan Society. She received her Bachelor of Arts in chemistry and economics from Wesleyan University, where she was in the Economics Honors Society and on women's crew. Abigail was a member of the firm's 2023 Summer Associate class.

Outside of work, Abigail enjoys going for long walks; listening to podcasts; singing, especially musical theatre songs; and cooking and baking.
